World Organization to Investigate the Persecution of Falun Gong (WOIPFG)

To investigate the criminal conduct of all institutions, organizations, and individuals involved in the persecution of Falun Gong; to bring such investigation, no matter how long it takes, no matter how far and deep we have to search, to full closure; to exercise fundamental principles of humanity; and to restore and uphold justice in society.

Investigation Recording 2020-040

Date: April 16, 2020 (+86-931-8943707)

Subject(s): Nurse, Liver Transplant Nurses' Station, Lanzhou University Second Hospital

Summary

We've been doing two cases continuously since the pandemic was over. We still have one inpatient here. Our liver transplant team has done several cases, several cases already.

As a team, they have a team member in charge of contacting (for the organs) and another in charge of the operations, with their members taking on different job roles.

The transplant team is across several functions in our hospital.

For that, we'll definitely give you the priority to make the arrangement for you. So no worries, they'll coordinate it well.

Translation

Nurse: Hello. General Surgery at Lanzhou University Second Hospital.

Investigator: Yeah. Hello. I called in just a while back. Hey. Doctor Zhou answered the phone and told me to see him next Wednesday. I was still wondering if his skills are okay.

Nurse: What's exactly...what's the issue of your concern?

Investigator: The skills to perform liver transplants. How're his skills? Are the skills okay?

Nurse: As you may know, our liver transplant team has done several cases, several cases already.

Investigator: Several cases have been done, right?

Nurse: Yeah, exactly. We've been doing two cases continuously since the pandemic was over. We still have one inpatient here. You can come over to take a look. The patient will be discharged as soon as tomorrow or the day after tomorrow!

Investigator: How long would be the wait time before it can be done generally?

Nurse: That I don't know. It depends because the patient needs an assessment. That's hard to say. You can go to our Director Zhou to discuss it specifically. Oh, they can offer you a very professional consultation, but I can just give you a brief idea. All right?

Investigator: Oh, so here at your place...is there just one team of Director Zhou here to perform liver transplants?

Nurse: In our hospital...the transplant team is across several functions in our hospital. Ah, just wait a bit until you see Director Zhou, okay? Wait till next week, you come to consult with Director Zhou for the details, all right? Ah, I can only tell you briefly about it, okay?

Investigator: As my classmate referred Li Yumin to me, is Li Yumin in that team as well?

Nurse: Yes. They are in one team, the same team. It's just that they have one team member in charge of contacting (for the organs), others in charge of the operations, and the rest taking care of this or that—their members are taking on different job roles. Got it?

Investigator: Ah, I see. Well, by the way let me ask you about something that would be in your own field of expertise as a nurse. I was wondering what your capacity would be like if we come to get admitted to your hospital. How many beds in your inpatient service do you have?

Nurse: Don't worry. For that, we'll definitely give you the priority to make the arrangement for you. So no worries, they'll coordinate it well.

Investigator: Ah.

Nurse: I can only tell you about it in a nutshell.

Investigator: All right.
