Translation

Nurse1: Hi, hello!

Investigator: Hi, hello! Is this the Jiangsu Province Hospital?

Nurse1: Yes.

Investigator: Could you please connect me to Kidney Transplant?

Nurse1: Do you want Kidney Transplant?

Investigator: Yes, right.

Nurse1: Please wait.

Nurse2: ...Please speak!

Investigator: Hi, hello! Is this Kidney Transplant?

Nurse2: Yes, who is this?

Investigator: Hello, I'm a family member of a patient. My husband wants to get transferred to your hospital to a kidney transplant surgery there. How should we get him transferred over?

Nurse2: A kidney transplant surgery requires acquiring a matching kidney donor; you need to come to get him registered first.

Investigator: Isn't this the office?

Nurse2: You just come visit our kidney transplant outpatient clinic, and make an appointment with Director Han, Director Han Zhijian. He's an expert in kidney transplants.

Investigator: What was the full name?

Nurse2: Han Zhijian. Zhi is the same as in "tongzhi" and jian as in "jianqing".

Investigator: Oh, okay, Director Han Zhijian, is he the director there?

Nurse2: Yes, that's right. He's an expert specialized in kidney transplants.

Investigator: Oh, When does he come to the outpatient clinic? When can I come see him?

Nurse2: You may get online, and do an online search.

Investigator: Do we need to see a doctor first before getting transferred?

Nurse2: Oh, it's not like that. We must have a liver source, so you come get him registered first. Then when a liver source becomes available after the registration, you will be informed to come over with the patient to get his tissue typing done. If the liver source matches well, the patient can then be admitted into our hospital.

Investigator: Can it be done in a month? In one month?

Nurse2: In a month, no way. In just one month, we can barely do...it all depends on the liver sources.

Investigator: Oh, I see.

Nurse2: You can come to consult about that at the outpatient clinic. Ah, I got to go!

Investigator: Oh, okay, all right, thank you!
