Translation

Nurse: Hello, this is Hepatobiliary Surgery.

Investigator: Hey, hey, hello there. Is this Hepatobiliary Surgery? Hepatobiliary Surgery at General Hospital of Ningxia Medical University, right?

Nurse: Umm.

Investigator: Hey.

Nurse: Yes.

Investigator: Hello, hello there. Umm. This is Lee calling.

Nurse: Umm. How are you?!

Investigator: Could you please check to see if there is a shortage of beds for those liver transplant patients at your hospital now?

Nurse: At our hospital here, Director Yu is mainly in charge of liver transplantation.

Investigator: Oh, Director Yu. Which Yu, Director Yu? Who is that?

Nurse: It's Yu Songning. It's him.

Investigator: Ah. Yu Songning.

Nurse: Right, he's at the second section of our Hepatobiliary, which is located on the 11th floor. You may call 6745060 and then ask for Director Yu specifically. Or you can check on which day Director Yu has his clinic and you could talk to him specifically about this thing.

Investigator: Ah. Does Director Yu do it himself? How good are his skills?
Director Yu.

Nurse: Umm, ah, for that type of surgeries, we have done that ourselves before, and we've also invited outside experts to perform some cases.

Investigator: Ah, you can invite outside experts over?

Nurse: Director Yu will make recommendations for you.

Investigator: Ah.

Nurse: Right. He will help you contact and find relevant parties.

Investigator: Oh.

Investigator: Is it possible to find a liver source within one month and then to proceed with his transplant surgery?

Nurse: Umm, regarding his surgery and its specifics, you need to specially consult with Director Yu.

Investigator: Oh? We have to ask Director Yu.

Nurse: Director Yu will assess his condition. Right, after the assessment, Director Yu will decide if he's suitable for the organ transplant... What happens after the surgery? Where is the liver source registered?—you need to ask our Director Yu all these questions.

Investigator: Oh?

Nurse: Since this number is for our nurses' station, we are not very sure about those specifics, including the liver source, the wait time, the doctors' schedule, queueing and so on.

Investigator: Oh, without getting into those specifics...well, based on your personal experience, since every case is very different, on average and with good luck, do you feel it's possible to get the surgery done in a month? Because this also involves things such as the need to have a family member to stay by his bed, and time arrangements, etc. So I say...

Nurse: Ah, I am not quite sure about all this, either.

Investigator: Ah, then I would...that number, 6745060, is Director Yu's group phone number over there, right?

Nurse: No, no, it's not. It's the phone number for our nurses' station here.

Investigator: Umm.

Nurse: If you call the number for the nurses' station, the main line would be very busy. It is quite hard to find Director Yu.

Investigator: Umm, I see. Which Chinese character of "Yu" is it for Director Yu? Is it the one meaning "surplus", as in the idiom "every year gets a surplus"?

Nurse: It's the character with two horizontal lines, plus a vertical hook.

Investigator: Oh, That's the one, Yu. I got it.

Nurse: Right, right, right.

Investigator: Ah, Then for Yu Zhongning, is Zhong the one meaning "neutral"?

Nurse: No, it's Song instead, the one meaning "pine". Ning is the one meaning "tranquility".

Investigator: Alright, ah, okay, okay, that works. I will contact him for all the information including the hospitalization, as well as that...

Nurse: Right, right. He can do all those things.

Investigator: Regarding this area...

Nurse: Since he is the group leader in charge of this area.

Investigator: Ah. Director Yu is the group head, right? Okay, okay.

Nurse: Right. That's what I mean—the group leader in charge of liver transplantation.

Investigator: Oh, alright.

Nurse: Right. If you contact him, he can answer all your questions.

Investigator: Alright, okay. Thank you very much.

Nurse: Sure.

Investigator: Alright. Bye.
