Translation

Investigator: Hi, how are you? Is this Beijing Anzhen Hospital?

Doctor: Yes.

Investigator: Is this Transplant Program? Oh.

Doctor: Please go ahead. How can I help you?

Investigator: Oh, greetings. Here's my question, somebody in our family got infected with COVID-19, and wants to get a lung transplant. Can you do it there?

Doctor: We cannot do lung transplantation here.

Investigator: Ah, you can't do it?

Doctor: Why do you need a lung transplant, ah?

Investigator: He got COVID-19.

Doctor: Is he already on ECMO (Extra-Corporeal Membrane Oxygenation)? His lung function is completely gone?

Investigator: He is not totally finished. He just tested positive. His lungs have changed color a little bit. They said if it is done now, there would still be a chance.

Doctor: He doesn't have to go so far as to have a lung transplant! His lung function is still good enough, ah?

Investigator: Just want to ask. He has COVID-19. Isn't it progressing very fast?

Doctor: COVID-19, yes.

Investigator: He said it is very fast, so...

Doctor: It will not...If the patient gets treated well, he should be able to recover.

Investigator: A while ago, the newspaper reported those two cases—one done in Wuxi and the other performed in Zhejiang.

Doctor: Please don't!

Investigator: Don't do it?

Doctor: Please don't make the decision in a rash, ah. It works only in extreme terminal cases. Even in such cases, the long term effect of lung transplantation is not very good.

Investigator: Ah.

Doctor: Ah. 90% will work out. 95% can be cured, ah.

Investigator: Is that so? It's first time I heard what you just said. Everybody else is saying that there is no medicine for it.

Doctor: There is no medicine. It is a virus. If we can protect the function of the lungs, it will work. Death rate from this disease should not exceed 3%, ah.

Investigator: Then why are there so many deaths from it?

Doctor: Please do not talk like this here. Let me tell you, okay? Ah, most of the patients can be cured. Don't even mention lung transplantation!

Investigator: Oh. As I saw its coverage in the newspaper, it seemed quite scary. In any case, I can break the internet blockade. I saw in Iran people suddenly dropped dead on the ground. I saw from overseas web pages, in Wuhan people suddenly collapsed onto the ground while walking.

Doctor: Ah, people suddenly collapsed onto the ground while walking—that is nonsense!

Investigator: No, I read it.

Doctor: Those are not truth. He did not fall to the ground due to pneumonia.

Investigator: Is that so?

Doctor: He could fall to the ground due to his heart, the heart problems, or due to his brain problems.

Investigator: Then why?

Doctor: Nobody dies suddenly from pneumonia. Nonsense!

Investigator: Is that so?

Doctor: Yes.

Investigator: But I saw the videos.

Doctor: It is impossible medically.

Investigator: Oh, indeed I saw it.

Doctor: That was not right.

Investigator: I saw the videos from overseas.

Doctor: Don't even mention those videos. I saw them, they are all fake!

Investigator: Is that so?

Doctor: Yes, I can tell you responsibly, they are all fake.

Investigator: Oh, so no need to do lung transplantation. Ah, it can be cured?

Doctor: Of course, of course. Over 95% can be rescued.

Investigator: Then why foreign countries have stopped classes and given vacations, the whole world is like that now.

Doctor: Stopping classes, that is to control the infection. That is another matter!

Investigator: Ah, ah, ah. That is okay.

Doctor: Okay, if you say he is finished as soon as he got infected, he dies immediately, that is a different matter!

Investigator: So your hospital does not do it. Your Anzhen Hospital does not do this lung transplantation, right?

Doctor: You don't need to inquire about things like this, either. They don't make any sense, ah.

Investigator: Ah, ah, ah. That is okay.

Doctor: Okay, okay.
