

Ni Jialian: former Director of the hepatobiliary surgery at Jinan Military General Hospital, Shandong Province

Date: January 19, 2017 (+86-1192017_134231)

Excerpts:

1. “It is hard to get liver donors here in Shandong now, so let me tell you, you had better go to Shanghai Changzheng Hospital!”
2. “It is hard to say. The previous donors were all prisoners.”
3. “Most of the [organs] used by every single hospital were prisoners’ organs.”
4. [Investigator: So all the ones you used in the past were the organs from Falun Gong practitioners, right?] Ni: Yes.

Phone Investigation Recording:

Ni: Hello?

Investigator: Hello, Director Ni, Ni Jialian, hello!

Ni: Hello?

Investigator: I have a patient who can’t wait to receive the liver transplantation. May I ask, are you still doing this right now?

Ni: Whom are you looking for? Whom are you looking for?

Investigator: I am looking for you, Director Ni, Ni Jialian.

Ni: Where are you from?

Investigator: I am from Qingdao. I am the friend [of...]

Ni: Let me tell you, let me tell you, I couldn’t answer you now. Because I am retired.

Investigator: Ah, you are retired. When did you retire?

Ni: It has been several years since I retired.

Investigator: Really? Could you help recommend a good doctor to me?

Ni: It is hard to get liver donors here in Shandong now, so let me tell you, you had better go to Shanghai Changzheng Hospital!

Investigator: May I ask? My friend told me that the donors we originally used were very good. Where were those donors from...?

Ni: The previous donors were excellent, but the donors that we use now are different! That is a long time ago. Do you know, it has always been changing a lot in the recent few years?

Investigator: So where were the donors you originally used from?

追查迫害法轮功国际组织

World Organization to Investigate the Persecution of Falun Gong

To investigate the criminal conduct of all institutions, organizations, and individuals involved in the persecution of Falun Gong; to bring such investigation, no matter how long it takes, no matter how far and deep we have to search, to full closure; to exercise fundamental principles of humanity; and to restore and uphold justice in society

Ni: It is hard to say. The previous donors were all prisoners.

Investigator: Were these all from prisoners?

Ni: Now we are not allowed to use the prisoners' organs. Now you know.

Investigator: Really? So were all the organs used by your [previous hospital] were the prisoners' organs, during your retirement?

Ni: Alas, most of the [organs] used by every single hospital were prisoners' organs.

Investigator: Really?

Ni: Now we can no longer use prisoners' organs. This is already stipulated by the state regulations. We can no longer use prisoners' organs.

Investigator: Really? Do you have any old friend, who is good at organ transplantation?

Ni: Alas, let me tell you. I have retired. Many [elderly doctors] have also retired. You look for a [good] hospital. Don't look for [specific] doctors. Now many doctors have retired. You know? Our generation of doctors have all... Our generation of doctors have all retired. You had better find younger doctors.

Investigator: Director Ni...

Ni: I have told you that I'm retired. I am not in charge of this anymore. If I could, I would like to help you.

Investigator: Director Ni, could you help me find the organs from Falun Gong practitioners? All you used previously were that kind of organs, right?

Ni: Now, that is not allowed by the court. They don't allow you to use them. Do you know that?

Investigator: I know. Didn't you use organs from that type [of practitioners] before?

Ni: Yeah, I used that kind before. But they don't allow you to use them now.

Investigator: Then how could you use them before?

Ni: At that time, the state didn't have any law. But now the state has enacted the law. Can you use them without any consequences?

Investigator: So all the ones you used in the past were the organs from Falun Gong practitioners, right?

Ni: Yes.

Investigator: Ah, got it.

Ni: Now the state has enacted a law. The use [of them] is prohibited by the law. We all obtain the organs from brain-dead patients.
