Investigator: Is this Liver Transplantation at the Third Affiliated Hospital of Sun Yat-sen University? I...

Doctor: Well, yes.

Investigator: A friend of mine called and said that he wanted to come over for a liver transplant. He said that you have a shortage of beds. Is there still a shortage of beds now? Can he come over?

Doctor: What's your name?

Investigator: Ah, we haven't made appointments yet. I just made a call, we heard there's a shortage of beds, so we didn't go.

Doctor: Oh, then, then you should contact your professor in charge when the time comes!

Well, there are few beds now, so you, you, you...anyway, if you want to come, you can ask a professor to see the patient first.

Investigator: Oh, Doctor, I wanted to ask you a question, that is, as for this liver transplant, are there too many patients? Has the hospital done a lot this year, since there's such a shortage of beds?

Doctor: This...yes! So what?

Investigator: It's a good thing that you are doing a lot. Doing a lot means a patient gets his turn faster! Very fast to ...

Doctor: You yourself...you have to come and ask, I can't explain it to you too clearly on the phone.

Investigator: Why not? I...you can tell me roughly about it, and I can tell them roughly about it, because several hospitals in Guangdong are doing it, your hospital, the third affiliated hospital, is doing it, and the first affiliated hospital is also doing it. So, I just thought...she said that, she said she would pick the third affiliated hospital! There may be too many people at the other hospital, so we called the third affiliated hospital. Have you done a lot in the Third Affiliated Hospital this year? Liver transplants in the past two years?

Doctor: Yes, we have done a lot!

Investigator: Did you do a few hundred this year?

Doctor: Well, I can't tell you the details.

Investigator: Why? It's not confidential...

Doctor: Because you...if you come here, the professor will tell you then, but now you are calling about it, I won't tell you.

Investigator: But how many you have done...

Doctor: That's it for now, bye.
