Recording content:

Yi Shuhong: Hello!

Investigator: Hello! Are you Director Yi Shuhong of the Liver Transplantation Department of the Third Hospital of Sun Yat-sen University?

Yi Shuhong: Who's this?

Investigator: You are Director Yi, right? How are you!

Yi Shuhong: Mmmmm!

Investigator: I'm calling from Beijing. I have a relative who lives near you. He wants to have a liver transplant. I just want to ask if the liver transplant operation can be arranged in your place if the physical examination is okay?

Yi Shuhong: What's the situation with him? Which hospital is he in now?

Investigator: He has type O blood, 45 years old, ah, this...

Yi Shuhong: What's his name?

Investigator: Wang Jun.

Yi Shuhong: Where is he? In which hospital?

Investigator: Three months ago, he went to Beijing No. 307 Hospital for a physical check up, and then he went back home. His home is near your place, relatively close to you. The hospital examination shows that it is better for him to have an operation now, because his condition is relatively good and not too bad, so he'd better do it early, that is to say, it is more convenient to take care of him if it's done at your place.

Yi Shuhong: Ah, when do you ask him, next week, bring the materials and go to the hospital to find me.

Investigator: Oh, that's great. What day will you see next week?

Yi Shuhong: I have a transplant clinic for children on Monday, so you can ask him to come to that clinic to see me, on the second floor of Lingnan Hospital.

Investigator: Monday afternoon? I mean Monday morning or afternoon?

Yi Shuhong: In the morning, the outpatient clinic on the second floor of Lingnan Hospital came to see me.

Investigator: Lingnan Hospital, isn't it?

Yi Shuhong: Yes, he should know it.

Investigator: On the second floor of Lingnan Hospital, okay. There is one more thing. I would like to ask, if the physical exams are all okay, how long does it usually take for you to arrange a surgery? I was thinking, if it's alright, I'd like to go and have a look too.

Yi Shuhong: About the time it's hard to say for sure sometimes. I have to look at the patient first, such as his height, weight, and tissue matching, and so on, including the condition of his blood vessels, and if his exam results are complete.

Investigator: Right, but if you find everything okay, how long would it take approximately? I just want to have a general idea...

Yi Shuhong: Generally it takes several months.

Investigator: Half a month, or a month, is that possible?

Yi Shuhong: Generally it won't be possible, not so fast, not so fast, let's look at how everything is and the person's condition first, including the condition of his blood vessels, etc.

Investigator: Okay, I'd ask, generally speaking, when everything is okay, can you arrange it in a month or two?

Yi Shuhong: It depends on the condition of the donor, so it's hard to say. Okay, come over to have a check up first, come over to have a check up first before everything else, okay?

Investigator: Okay, but his condition is serious.

Yi Shuhong: You tell him go to the outpatient clinic, and we will stay in touch, okay?

Investigator: Okay, that's great, okay, okay, thank you!
