Investigation Recording 9, “We are still in the preparatory stage for organ donation”

Subject of Investigation: A staff member from the Red Cross Society of Beijing

Date: December 6, 2015 (Phone number: 861063558766)

(Recording: MP3)

Investigator: That is Beijing Red Cross, right?

Red Cross staff: Yes, we are on duty today.

Investigator: I have a relative, who needs a transplant. The hospital said that your Red Cross Society here has organs. I would like to ask, do people donate organs here at the Red Cross Society?

Red Cross staff: You mean the organ donation?

Investigator: Yes, organ donation.

Red Cross staff: We are the Beijing Red Cross Society, and now we are still in the preparatory stage for organ donation.

Investigator: Beijing is preparing for organ donation through the Red Cross, right?

Red Cross staff: Yes, yes.

Investigator: That has not yet begun, right? Does that mean Beijing residents have not donated any organs yet, there's no such a case yet, and you are still in the preparatory stage, correct?

Red Clerk: We now have a preparatory office, which is doing this, but no specific department is formally being responsible for it.

Investigator: Just preparations. No formal department is doing it, right?

Red Cross staff: Right, only preparations, but no formal department has been established yet.

Investigator: Oh, that means no one can come in to donate his/her organs, right?

Red Cross staff: It's possible that some people have the intention to donate, and we generally encourage them to register on a website.
